

Herzing University welcomes the Omaha School of Massage Therapy!

(May 2009) Herzing's newest addition to the Herzing University family is the highly-regarded Omaha School of Massage Therapy. Serving the greater Omaha community as both a massage school and clinic for nearly two decades, the school has earned its reputation as the premier institution for massage education and was voted by our residents as the "Best Massage Therapy Practice" for The Reader's "Best of Omaha 2007" edition.

Campus President, Steve Carper, stated, "We are both proud and honored to join Herzing University, an institution that is known across the U.S. for its career-focused education and strong focus on student service, two attributes we have always been very passionate about." He continued by saying, "This is a great opportunity for our students, since they now have the same small-college feel and personalized attention they love with the prestige of the university title."

The Omaha School of Massage Therapy offers a diploma and associate degree program in therapeutic massage, with plans to expand into other areas of healthcare in the near future.
